Activity description:

You may well have children in your class who have English as an additional language and this presents a fantastic opportunity for cultural exchange thus building friendships and an understanding of how similar we all are as human beings. Take a short trip to the school grounds where all of its different features - such as trees, flowers or the football goal - can be named in all the languages spoken in the class. This approach can of course be adopted for the formal study of any foreign language too.
